MONDAY EVENING, NOV. 29, 1919.

Chinese Laws.
In lemon colored silk a Chinese diplomat talked about Chinese laws.

"Some of our laws, you know, are very stimulating," he said. "For example, Chi owed money to a money lender. Chi would not pay, and the money lender hanged himself on Chi's doorstep. Chi was condemned to death. You see, he was really responsible for the money lender's death."

"A son able to support his parents is imprisoned for life if he won't do so. A son unable to support them is imprisoned for three years, as we hold—and quite rightly—that there must be something wrong with a young man who can't support his parents."

"Our police are excellent, thanks to the stimulus of our law. When a crime is committed a sleuth is put upon the case and given, say, thirty days to land the criminal. If the sleuth fails he himself pays the penalty of the crime, less two degrees. That, too, is a just and stimulating law, for if the police can neither prevent nor punish crime then they should be themselves punished for their rank incapacity."—New York Press.

Superstitious Remedies.
For whooping cough a cooked dormouse is good. In the eighteenth century this remedy was employed in Scotland. Here is another medicament for the same complaint: "Watercress is a very good thing, sir, with a little bit of that brown sugar what you use to put on to bacon and some honey mixed with it. And I'll tell you what's a good thing for croup but a riesty bacon fat fried down and afore it receives add some pepper and vinegar. It opens the pipes of the lungs, d'ye see." And if you are adventurous you may try this for "plegm on the chest." Catch a "dear little dotty frog" and tie a bit of string to one of its back legs. Then you "keep on letting it go down your throat and pulling it up again." The narrator of this added to T. W. Thompson, who sets down these stories: "It's the truth, young fellow, and it cleared the plegm out of his throat bootiful, but we wouldn't do such a thing as that."—London Chronicle.

Boomerang Kinks.
There are a good many "kinks" to be learned to throw the boomerang skillfully. One is always to throw against the wind if you want it to come back to you. It is a miniature aeroplane, for it literally sails against the wind and is borne upward and onward by the breeze. If the player wants to make a long distance straightaway record he can throw with the wind, but he must take care to select a boomerang which is heavy—so heavy that it will not be too much affected by the air currents. By pointing the boomerang at a certain angle he can make it soar aloft in circles like a hawk until it may be as high as 100 feet above the earth. As in golf playing, it is not so much mere strength that makes a long thrower, but the skill in aiming, the direction and in boomerang throwing the way in which advantage may be taken of the air currents.—St. Nicholas.

The Value of His Time.
Young physicians in the smaller towns have an idea that appearing very busy will help them greatly in starting a practice. The following was told by an ex-senator, Dr. Godfrey Hunter of Kentucky. Dr. Hunter had a call the afternoon following the hanging out of his "shingle" and started through town in his buggy at terrific speed. A policeman stopped the enterprising physician.
"Doctor," he said, "it is against the city ordinance to drive at the speed you are going. You must accompany me to the judge and pay your fine."
"What is the fine?" inquired the doctor.
"Five dollars."
The doctor's hand flew to his pocket. "Here's $10. I have to come back just as fast as I am going."—Success Magazine.

Fixed Stars.
There are no fixed stars. When we look up at the stars they appear to be very still and peaceful, but astronomers know that such is not the case, but that each one is moving, some with incredible speed, invisible to the unaided eye, yet visible to the instruments at their disposal. Our sun, for instance, which is nothing more or less than one of the "stars" supposed to be "fixed," is moving along, with the entire solar system, toward a point in the constellation Hercules. In nature, from the most insignificant germ to the largest world, everything is in perpetual motion.

The Maid's Chance.
"Do you ever lose that umbrella of yours?" asked the maiden.
"No; I don't," replied the man sternly. "The person who takes that umbrella will have to take me."
"Do I understand that to be a proposal of marriage or a threat?" inquired the miss sweetly.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Woman Question.
Little Willie—Say, paw, what is the "woman question?" Pa—It's numerous, my son. For example: What shall I wear? How does my hair look in the back? Is my hat on straight? etc.—Exchange.

Up and Down.
Algernon Ardupe—"Can't you make me any better rate for room and board than what you advertise—$5 up? Mrs. Hamand—Yes. In your case it will be $5 down.—Chicago Union.

Knowledge is proud that he has earned so much. Wisdom is humble that he knows no more.—Cowper.

Fifty years' experience of an O.D. Nurse.
—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is the prescription of one of the best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and has been used for fifty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. It relieves the child from pain, cures diarrhea, griping in the bowels, and wind colic. By giving health to the child, it rest the mother. Twenty-five cents a bottle, oct 26 cent.
